THREE MEN BURIED ALIVE.

KILLED BY THE CAVING IN OF A TRENCH IN WHICH THEY WERE WORKING.

Workmen, Laying a Main for the a Gas Company, Made Victims of Carelessness-The Police Looking for the Contractors. The Standard Gas Company is laying a twenty-inch main in Thirty-second street across the city from the site of its proposed new gasworks at Thirty-second street and East River. D. R. Hobby and M. Marona. who have an office in the basement of 471 Fourth evenue, are the contractors. They had a gang of twenty-five Irishmen and Italians, under reman M. Castero, at work yesterday in a trench eight feet deep and two feet wide beween Madison and Fourth avenues. One of the big fron pipes had just been lowed into the ditch near the Fourth avenue end at 2 P. M. and three men were lying beneath the mass of iron fitting it to the main, while Dominick Casey of 245 Water street, oklyn, stood upright assisting them. Suddenly the earth at the north side of the trench. and for a space extending twelve feet along its adge and three or four feet out into the street. gave way. Three or four tons of dirt and cobble stones buried the four workmen out of sight. As the other workmen came running up Casey acrambled out unaided and, grasping a ble stones buried the four workmen out of sight. As the other workmen came running up Casey scrambled out unaided and, grasping a shovel, directed the efforts of the others in recovering the bodies of his three companions.

The first body recovered was that of a man known to the other workmen as Potter or Powers. He was dead. Capt. Ryan and a reserve corps from the Twenty-first precinct dug out the other two men. They were Thomas Linehan of $26 East Thirty-fourth street and Patrick Cox of 103d street and Second avenue. Linehan was dead, but the ambulance surgeons thought they detected signs of life in Cox. They laid him upon the pavement and labored valuity for an hour and a half to induce respiration by artificial means.

The three bodies were taken to the West Thirtieth street station. All were Irishmen. Spparently between 26 and 30 years of age. Linehan and Cox were unmarried. Nothing was known about Potter. Deathwas caused in each instance by suffocation.

Ont. Ryan made an investgation and found that the wails of the trench were not properly shored up. At intervals of ten feet were supports consisting of two upright planks held apart by a slendier cross piece. A derrick had slood on the edge that caved in. It was used to lower the iron pipes. The great weight had loosened the earth beneath, and the weak supports were insufficient to keep it from failing.

Contractor Hobby was not present when the accident occurred. Contractor Marona was there, according to the statements of several of the workmen. He and Foreman Castero were not to be found when the police arrived. The work of the contractors was under the supervision of Inspector John M. Haggerty of the Street Department, and George Bouscein, for the gas company. Haggerty said his duty was simply to see that the trench was of the properly joined together. Both declared that the responsibility for shoring up the sides of the dith rested with the contractors and the foreman brought before him at the Coroner's office at 10 o'clock Coroner Edman, who had take

THE FIGHT FOR STEWART'S MILLIONS. John M. Hopkins and Bishop Littlejohn

Testify and the Case Goes Over Till Fall. John M. Hopkins, the venerable accountant of the Stewart estate, again testified before Surrogate Ransom yesterday in Miss Rosalle Butler's suit to break the will of Mrs. A. T. Stewart. Lawyer Choate asked him about Judge Hilton's receipts from the dry goods business after April, 1876. He could not state the average exactly, but it was over half a million a year for the first three years, and almost the same for the remaining time.

Mr. Hopkins took from his pocket a bundle of papers containing memoranda taken from the destroyed special ledger. One paper showed the account of Mr. Stewart after the final adjustment of the ledger. The credits were $16,$19.724.81. Against this amount was a debit of $307,590,97, and other items—Hempstead Woman's Hotel, merchandise, and profit and loss—sggregating $8,052,436.80. This left $8,159,$277,04, to which was added $19.964.93, making $8,179,241.97, the value of Mr. Stewart's interest on the day of his death. Mr. Choate asked:

2.—Did Mr. Stewart have a bank account reservet. Q.—Did Mr. Stewart have a bank account separate from that of the firm? A.—No.
Q.—What did Mrs. Stewart have as a source of revenue Q.—What did Mrs. Stewart have as a source of revenue after she had given all of Mr. Stewart's interest in the firm to Judge Hilton? A.—She had her real estate and some bank stock q.—What did Mrs. Stewart have as a source of revenue after she had given all of Mr. Stewart's interest in the firm to Judge Hilton! A.—She had her real estate and some bank stock.

The witness testified that Mr. Stewart's interest in the firm at the time of his death was 99 83-100 per cent., and that of Mr. Libbey 17-100 of 1 per cent. Judge Hilton, before A. T. Stewart died, had a salary of $24,000 from the firm and $10,000 from Mr. Stewart.

Then Mr. Hopkins stood aside to permit the examination of Abram Newkirk Littlejonn, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Long Island. Bishop Littlejohn testified that he had had interviews with Mrs. Stewart in 1876 and 1877, and that he request he had laid the cornerstone of the Garden City Cathedral on June 28, 1877. He had also had talks with Henry Hilton. He saw them both at Saratoga in August. 1887, and talked of two schools to be added to the cathedral enterprise. Judge Hilton was opposed, saying it was not yet time for such an extension. Mrs. Stewart hoped the schools might be established. In September they were opened in temporary buildings. Mrs. Stewart furnished the buildings and gave $5,000 a year. On cross-examination, Mr. Choate elicited the information that in her conferences with the witness Mrs. Stewart was attended by Judge Hilton. When she handed witness the deed of gift of the cathedral property, before the altar, Judge Hilton stood beside her.

Mr. Hopkins was then cross-examined at great length by Mr. Boot, the purpose being to show that it was necessary to take prompt action after the death of Mr. Stewart. for the business was one which must go on or stop. Any delay would have injured it greatly. The witness said he had endorsed Stewart & Co.'s paper, sometimes to the extent of $150,000 or $200,000. Mr. Hilton had done the same.

Mr. Root offered in evidence the books of Mrs. Stewart. Kept by Anstey.

When Mr. Choate again got the witness he asked him why there were no balances on Anstey's books, since they were the set shown to Mrs. Stewart.

The trial was adjourned until Oct. 22.

The Mayor Will Look Into the Steam Heat-

F. N. White, managing clerk of A. G. Spaid-ing a Brothers' sporting goods house at 241 Broadway, complained to Mayor Hewitt yesterday against the Steam Heating Company. A break in the pipe in front of the store has been pottered with for weeks without any apparent progress. In the mean time the lower Secret of the building are intolerably not and there has eary apparent progress. In the mean time the lower score of the building are intolerably hot and there has been much sickness among the employees. The whole building is without water, as the hot-air pumping engine eaunot be operated in a temperature where the water will aimost boil. The Mayor agreed with Mr. White that the condition of affairs was outrageous but he Board of Health or even the Mayor could do much the Board of Health or even the Mayor could do much for him. He thought that an injunction would be the groper remedy, and promised to have the Cerporation Douisel help in the matter. He also said that he would be willing to investigate the matter himself and be a writness for Mr. White in his suit.

The vault is the one nearest the walk in the northeast corner of the churchyard, and in it are the remains of a little child. SHOCKED ON AN ELECTRIC BOAD. Ers. Linzie Pfifer Kneeked Senselem from

Each of the cars on the electric railroad from East New York to Jamaica has a motor in it, and it gets electricity to run this motor from a wire stretched along the road overhead. Connection between the car and the wire is formed by means of a wheel which runs along on top of the wire, and from which a wire de-Moore street, Williamsburgh, is suffering from the effects of electric shocks received while she was riding in a car on this line on last Friday.

She said yesterday:

"Last Friday, accompanied by my sister and my two children, I went on a visit to a friend at Union Course. I took a seat in the car in the corner where the poles are set on which the wire runs to furnish electricity for the cars.
As the car passed the second toll gate I heard wire runs to furnish electricity for the cars. As the car passed the second toll gate I heard two reports like the discharge of a revolver, and a bright, blue flame shot in through the window. I grabbed for my child, who was looking out of the window, and felt a great pain in my left hand. I looked at my hand and found the skin burned off the first finger. The car stopped and all got out. After a while the conductor told us that all was right, and we got into the car again. I had just taken my left knee was drawn up to my breast. Then I was hurled from my seat, and I don't remember what happened afterward. When I recovered consclousness I was in a house. I was suffering terrible pain. A doctor told me that my left side was paralyzed. He says I will be paralyzed for life.

The woman into whose house Mrs. Pfiffer was carried said: "When I heard the report I thought it was a olstol shot, and looked out of my window. I saw a blue flame all about the car. Another passenger who was injured was an old woman, who, I was told, sat opposite Mrs. Pfiffer in the car. Her injuries, I am told were not so severe."

Mr. Pfiffer in the car. Her injuries, I am told were not so severe."

Mr. Pfiffer in the car. Her injuries they denied that any one had been hurt in their cars. After I had told them what Dr. Radioff had said, one of them said: 'Oh, the Doctor be —. That is all the satisfaction I got. I heard that an engineer on the road had his leg badly hurt by an electric shock. The people living along the line of the road say that birds fall dead when they touch the wires on the roadway."

AFTER THE STREET STANDS.

The Mayor Asks the Bureau of Encum brances to Look After the Pruit Venders. Mayor Hewitt stood aghast at Ninth street and Third avenue yesterday morning at the sight of a buxom Italian woman and her three children encamped there. The mother presided over a big fruit stand that covered half the sidewalk and reached half way out to the railroad tracks. In the vicinity and elsewhere in his travels about the city the Mayor saw many similar enroachments, and on reaching his office he wrote to the Department of Public nce he wrote to the Department of Public Works to request the Bureau of Encumbranees to look out for such violations of the law, but suggesting the serving of notices in advance of a raid. In his letter the Mayor said:

"I refer to the occupation of the streets and sidewalks, particularly the former, by the erection of stands for the sale of fruit and other articles of consumption. The incursion is a sudden one, and is apparently made by Italians, who are under the impression. I suppose, that this is a free country, and that the streets may be occupied by any one who can appropriate them to private use. If this practice is allowed to continue, according to its growth during the last ten days, New York will soon become impassable. The only effect of this use of the streets is to attract more fortly in the hands of Italians. This is a kind of immigration which ought not to be encouraged, and no privileges in violation of law should be accorded to these venders, because they do not contribute in any way to the business, comfort, or growth of the community, except in an unfavorable direction. I am sorry to deprive any poor family of a means of livelihood, but, in fact, it is no real charity to these people, while it does interfere so seriously with the general business of the city as to become a common nuisance." Miss Reichtenstein had known Mr. O'Donneil of r two years but she did not fail in love with him until she saw him doing the cowboy act in Newada Ned's Wild West show in Jersey City last suminer. O'Donneil and Miss Reichtenstein were to have been married in March last, but he failed to appear on the wedding day, and Miss Reichtenstein learned that he was paying attentions to other young women. She told her guardian all about it, and the failes cowboy promised to marry the young woman after being arrested for deceiving her.

Mr. O'Donneil said vesterday, after he was married and discharged from custody, that he should settle down to a domestic life, forsake the cowboy business, and return to fresco pointing, which is his trade. Corporation Counsel Beekman yesterday re-plied to Mayor Hewitt's request for an opinion upon the effect of Alderman Mooney's amendment to the snow and ice ordinance. The amendment exempts from the and the ordinance. The amendment exempts from the regulations for removing ice and snow from sidewalks and gutters such streets in the Twelfth Twenty-third, and Twenty-fourth wards as have not been curbed, guttered, and flagged, nor to those not opened according to law.
